We build strategic leaders, embrace diverse backgrounds, and apply ethical principles to create value. As a catalyst for entrepreneurial thinking and innovative solutions, we discover and apply new knowledge while enjoying the environment and people around us. Together, we make a lasting impact on our communities.
Executive Summary

Founded in 1917, the David Eccles School of Business at the University of Utah is a leader in business education, research, and citizenship. The Eccles School creates value in and out of the classroom—for students, faculty, companies, and the broader community. It supports world-class faculty and student research and strives to elevate its researchers as thought leaders in business education. In an evolving marketplace that puts a premium on entrepreneurial approaches, continuous curiosity, and empathetic global citizenship, the Eccles School is committed to fostering an inclusive environment and ensuring equitable systems inside the School, across the University, and in the community. The Eccles School seeks a dean to lead it into a bright and promising future.

The University of Utah, located in Salt Lake City in the foothills of the Wasatch Mountains, is the flagship institution of higher learning in Utah. Founded in 1850, it serves over 33,000 students from across the U.S. and the world. With over 90 major subjects at the undergraduate level and more than 100 major fields of study at the graduate level, including law and medicine, the university prepares students to live and compete in the global workplace. Known for its proximity to seven world-class ski resorts within 40 minutes of campus, the U encourages an active, holistic lifestyle, innovation, and collaborative thinking to engage students, faculty, and business leaders.

Students from the Eccles School will become the next generation of strategic leaders who transform the business landscape. The Eccles School offers a diverse set of educational programs—9 undergraduate majors, 6 undergraduate minors, 10 specialized masters degrees, 4 MBA programs, and 5 Ph.D. specializations, as well as executive education—that currently enroll more than 6,000 students. The most diverse college in Utah, the Eccles School awards more than $17 million in scholarships each year. The Eccles Alumni community is also large and geographically diffuse, with more than 42,000 Eccles School graduates across the world.
Founded in 1917, the David Eccles School of Business at the University of Utah is a leader in business education, research, and citizenship. The Eccles School creates value in and out of the classroom—for students, faculty, companies, and the broader community. It supports world-class faculty and student research and strives to elevate its researchers as thought leaders in business education. In an evolving marketplace that puts a premium on entrepreneurial approaches, continuous curiosity, and empathetic global citizenship, the Eccles School is committed to fostering an inclusive environment and ensuring equitable systems inside the School, across the University, and in the community. The Eccles School seeks a dean to lead it into a bright and promising future.

The University of Utah, located in Salt Lake City in the foothills of the Wasatch Mountains, is the flagship institution of higher learning in Utah. Founded in 1850, it serves over 33,000 students from across the U.S. and the world. With over 90 major subjects at the undergraduate level and more than 100 major fields of study at the graduate level, including law and medicine, the university prepares students to live and compete in the global workplace. Known for its proximity to seven world-class ski resorts within 40 minutes of campus, the U encourages an active, holistic lifestyle, innovation, and collaborative thinking to engage students, faculty, and business leaders.

Students from the Eccles School will become the next generation of strategic leaders who transform the business landscape. The Eccles School offers a diverse set of educational programs—9 undergraduate majors, 6 undergraduate minors, 10 specialized masters degrees, 4 MBA programs, and 5 Ph.D. specializations, as well as executive education—that currently enroll more than 6,000 students. The most diverse college in Utah, the Eccles School awards more than $17 million in scholarships each year. The Eccles Alumni community is also large and geographically diffuse, with more than 42,000 Eccles School graduates across the world.

Eccles School faculty are innovative thinkers who generate business knowledge through path-breaking research. With strong support for faculty and student research, through seminars, research centers and other initiatives, the Eccles School takes pride in its ability to recruit and retain world-class faculty.

To submit a nomination or express personal interest in this position, please see Procedure for Candidacy at the end of this profile.
Overview

The University of Utah established the School of Commerce and Finance in 1917. In its first year, 126 students enrolled, and over the next 80 years, the enrollment figure increased over 25 times. Renamed the David Eccles School of Business in 1991, it now educates more than 6,000 students in nine undergraduate minors, ten masters degrees, four MBA programs and five PhD specializations. Three new, cutting-edge buildings welcome students and world-class faculty. The Eccles School is accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business and holds supplemental AACSB accreditation in accounting. Its undergraduate, full-time, part-time and online MBA programs are nationally recognized and perform consistently well in regional and national business school rankings. The Eccles School also ranks as the most diverse college in Utah and, committed to a more inclusive future, created the First Ascent Scholars and expanded the Opportunity Scholars programs that support first-generation students as they pursue their college degrees.

The Eccles School hosts many centers and institutes, and initiatives that support faculty and student research, allow students to gain real-world experience through internships and fellowships, and connect the School with the business community through continuing education, professional development programs, and community events.

The Eccles School gives students a premier business education experience. Faculty provides world-class instruction in the classroom, and advisors guide students along their academic paths. To prepare students for their next steps, the Eccles School’s expert career coaches work closely with statewide, national, and global companies. Students’ business education begins on Day 1, with opportunities for experiential learning, employer-driven projects, highly engaged internships, and other entrepreneurial pursuits. Salt Lake City is home to Fortune 500 companies, some of the nation’s largest privately held businesses, professional sports franchises, and a flourishing arts and culture scene. The Eccles School’s prime location in the heart of the city provides significant opportunities for students, faculty and alumni to engage with the city’s thriving business community.

Opportunities and Expectations for Leadership

The new dean will have opportunities to strengthen relationships within the Eccles School, across campus, and in the community.

Galvanize the community around a vision for the future

The new dean of the Eccles School will demonstrate a deep understanding of the current state of business education nationally and internationally and will work closely with faculty, staff and University leadership to articulate a clear vision of the School’s future.

The new dean joins a successful enterprise—the Eccles School boasts several educational programs of distinction, successful institutes, centers, and initiatives, and long-standing relationships with the local business community. Building from these assets, the new dean will promote continued excellence in scholarship, teaching, and outreach that generate exceptional student experiences and advance the Eccles School’s reputation as a thought leader and industry partner.

Build external partnerships

Business education at the Eccles School extends well beyond the classroom. The Eccles School experience provides a world-class business education with a unique, entrepreneurial focus on real-world scenarios where students put what they learn into practice long before graduation. In recent years, Salt Lake’s traditional corporate community has been augmented by an explosion of entrepreneurial activity led by emerging high-tech and venture capital sectors, providing a fertile environment for strategic partnerships. The new dean will work from the outset to form partnerships that enhance the School’s educational and scholarly efforts. The new dean will also be the Eccles School’s chief fundraiser. The dean is supported by a strong professional team of fundraising, events, communications, and alumni relations staff. Building on the considerable success of recent years, the dean will assume office during the University’s most ambitious campaign in its history. Imagine New Heights comprehensive capital campaign was publicly announced in September 2018 and will close in December 2022. To date, more than $2.3 billion has been committed, including $257 million for scholarships and fellowships, $767 million for research, $363 million for academic programs and faculty support, $407 million for buildings and $430 million for libraries and public programs. The Eccles School has raised $151 million to date in the campaign, $81M of which is for academic programs and faculty support, $33 million for scholarships, and $14 million for research.

Strengthen systems and make connections across constituencies

The faculty and staff of the Eccles School are dedicated to serving the educational and research missions of the School and University. A new dean will share that commitment to the Eccles School’s mission and seize the opportunity to build partnerships within and across the School and University community. The University of Utah and the Eccles School foster an inclusive, welcoming environment that encourages individuals and groups to learn and work within and across diverse communities. The University emphasizes awareness, respect, and education about cultural identity, as well as professional identity, and recognizes its goal to serve and embrace the diverse backgrounds and experiences of the students, faculty, and staff of the University. The new dean should have a demonstrated commitment to equity, diversity, and inclusion. The new dean of the Eccles School also joins a community of deans from colleges across the University of Utah. Regular meetings of the deans allow not only for open communications about college and campus policy, but also open paths to potentially productive partnerships in research and teaching. The new dean will promote and facilitate interdisciplinary programming and collaboration across the University.

---

Centers, Institutes, & Initiatives

Institutes
- Kem C. Gardner Policy Institute
- Lassonde Entrepreneur Institute
- Marriner S. Eccles Institute for Economics and Quantitative Analysis

Centers
- Center for Business, Health, and Prosperity
- Goff Strategic Leadership Center
- Ivory-Boyer Real Estate Center
- Sorenson Center for Discovery & Innovation
- Sorenson Impact Center
- Utah Center for Financial Services

Initiatives
- AdThing Utah
- Daniels Fund Ethics Initiative
- Global Value-Based Healthcare
- Hope Corps
- Kahlert Initiative on Technology
- Student Investment Fund
- Utah Health & Economic Outreach (UHERO)
Professional Qualifications and Personal Qualities

The new dean of the David Eccles School of Business at The University of Utah will be committed to developing or enhancing, and executing the School’s strategic vision, promoting excellence in research and teaching, fundraising, and engaging with diverse communities.

The dean will embrace the Eccles School’s long-term commitments ensuring equitable systems and fostering an inclusive environment to support a vibrant culture that respects all experiences and identities.

The dean will lead through cooperation, sincere communication, personal accountability, and ethical governance. To this end, the successful candidate will have excellent communication skills, management skills, and the ability to work effectively and build collaborative relationships across multiple constituencies, including students, staff, faculty, alumni, local governments, and members of the philanthropic, business, and broader communities.

Although candidates with meaningful academic leadership experience are preferred, candidates with substantial knowledge of higher education who have leadership experience outside of higher education will also be considered. An understanding and commitment to academic freedom and the principles of shared governance are required.

Because the dean serves as the chief fundraiser for the School, a track record of successful fundraising and community partnership building is much desired. Fiscal and budgetary skills and experience are also an asset.

Accreditation experience, particularly with the AACSB, is valued but not required. A record of research, teaching, and service meriting a tenured appointment in the Eccles School is preferred.

About the University of Utah

The University of Utah is the state’s flagship institution of higher education, with 18 schools and colleges, more than 100 undergraduate and 90 graduate degree programs, and an enrollment of more than 33,000 students. In November 2019, the university was selected as a new member of the Association of American Universities—an invitation-only, prestigious group of 65 leading research institutions in North America marked by excellence in academic expertise and research impact, student success and securing resources in support of core missions. The Carnegie Foundation classifies the University of Utah as an R1: Doctoral University—Very High Research Institution.

The University of Utah’s success in achieving excellence in research and teaching reflects the values of Utah: An unparalleled work ethic and a spirit of entrepreneurship, collaboration and community service. These qualities

PROCEDURE FOR CANDIDACY

All applications, nominations and inquiries are invited. Applications should include, as separate documents, a CV or resume and a letter of interest addressing the themes in this profile.

WittKieffer is assisting University of Utah in this search, which will remain open until an appointment is made. Application materials should be submitted using WittKieffer’s candidate portal.

Nominations and inquiries can be directed to: Mercedes Vance, Alejandra Gillette-Teran and Natalie Song at UtahBusinessDean@wittkieffer.com

The University of Utah values diversity and is committed to equal opportunity for all persons regardless of age, color, disability, ethnicity, marital status, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, veteran status or any other status protected by law. have enabled the University of Utah to innovate across many fields and pioneer new programs with social impact, generate path-breaking discoveries, fuel critical research, and inspire innovative approaches to education. The U is the University for Utah just as it is the University of Utah. It strives to be a model public university in delivering unmatched value in higher education and health care while making social, economic and cultural contributions that improve the quality of life throughout the state, the nation and the world. The University of Utah’s reputation for excellence draws top-tier faculty and attracts motivated students from across the country and internationally. These students bring with them diverse experiences and outlooks—representing traditional and nontraditional students alike—thereby enhancing the exceptional educational experience the University of Utah offers.

Mission

The University of Utah fosters student success by preparing students from diverse backgrounds for lives of impact as leaders and citizens. We generate and share new knowledge, discoveries and innovations, and we engage local and global communities to promote education, health and quality of life. These contributions, in addition to responsible stewardship of our intellectual, physical and financial resources, ensure the long-term success and viability of the institution.

Strategic Vision

In 2020, the main and health campuses at the University of Utah launched a strategic roadmap that ensures a One U approach to the future—a blueprint designed to accelerate the university’s rise as it focuses on four overarching goals: student success, knowledge transfer, community engagement and institutional vitality. Strategy 2025 is the result of a process launched in spring 2019 that harnessed the creative power of our campus community and stakeholders to shape a new vision, with strategies and measurable outcomes to guide us for the next five years. More information about the University’s strategy plan is available at https://strategy.utah.edu/

---

Salt Lake City

To learn more about Salt Lake City visit VisitSaltLake.com